It's time to book a holiday. Yes, yes, it's possible you've just had one – but we've got to keep the dream alive, right? Much like how ordering your fourth takeaway of the week during lockdown was an act of heroic civic duty, it's important that we do our part to help the hotel industry bounce back after years of empty rooms and uncertainty. And if that means ditching our to-do list to sip cocktails by a sun-drenched pool, then that's just a sacrifice we'll have to make.

Below, we've listed some of the best new hotels around the world that you need to visit in 2026, as well as some beautiful extended stays that deserve your patronage.

Hôtel Massé

Location: Paris

In the 9th arrondissement, just south of Pigalle, a new-ish family-owned hotel is doing things a little differently – and providing an oasis of calm within one of the city's buzziest neighbourhoods. Massé is made up of 40 beautiful stripped back and intimate rooms that are tastefully pulled together with vintage furniture (largely from the 1970s) and art pieces. This year, the hotel opens up a sister bar-restaurant, Trente Paris, which you should most definitely check out (and why not check-in, while you're at it?)
